Preface

This Handbook contains information about the employment policies and practices of Allwyn. These policies reflect the Company's values, and we expect each employee to read this Handbook carefully as it is a valuable reference for understanding your job and Allwyn.

This Handbook supersedes all previously issued handbooks and any verbal or written policy statements made or issued before this Handbook. Except for the policy of at-will employment, Allwyn reserves the right to revise, delete and add to the provisions of this Handbook. All such revisions, deletions or additions must be in writing. No oral statements or representations can change the provisions of this Handbook. No one other than the President or the CEO may alter or modify any of the policies in this handbook.

None of our personnel documents and benefit plans, including this Handbook, constitutes, or is intended to constitute, an express or implied contract guaranteeing continued employment for any employee. No supervisor has any authority to enter into a contract of employment - express or implied - that changes or alters the at-will employment relationship.

Nothing in this Handbook or in any other document or policy is intended to violate any local, state or federal law. Nothing in this Handbook is intended to limit any concerted activities by employees relating to their wages, hours or working conditions. Furthermore, nothing in this Handbook prohibits an employee from reporting concerns, making lawful disclosures or communicating about conduct the employee believes violates any laws or regulations.

Section 1: About Allwyn

1.1 About Us

Formed in 2003, Allwyn was originally set up as a consulting company with its concentration primarily in the financial industry and public sector, providing application development, business and system analysis, application architecture, and project management services. Since that time, Allwyn has expanded its offerings, providing IT services for engineering, retail, financial, and government agencies. We are engaged in multiple types of Information Technology services as well as Product Development. We engage in support for customer projects and ongoing operations, as well as the complete management, staffing and delivery of projects for which we assume full control and responsibility.

Allwyn's head offices are located at 459 Herndon Parkway, Suite 13, Herndon, Virginia.

1.2 Our Values

We value:

- Hard work, providing value to our customers, and the ability to make both ours and our customers' working environments collaborative, enjoyable, and productive.
- Providing fair value to our employees, sub-contractors, and customers.
- Respectfulness toward our customers, peers, supervisors, subordinates, and all others with whom we are in contact for our professional dealings.

- Maintaining a wholesome balance between our private and professional lives

1.3 Our Mission

To provide the highest values of service to our customers and community, while respecting our co-workers, Allwyn's values, customer policies and norms, and generally accepted ethical practices and standards of conduct.

Section 2: Code of Ethics and Conduct

2.1 Code of Ethics and Conduct Overview

Allwyn is committed to doing things right and doing the right thing. We believe in an ethical work environment where you and our partners are valued in the work that we do. "Ethics" can mean different things to different people. In this section, we clarify what we mean by an "ethical workplace" and we expect you to understand and apply our commitment – this is how we do business.

While we may not be able to address all possible ethical and compliance concerns that an employee may encounter in the workplace, this section should be considered the primary source of information regarding conduct and ethics. All decision-making should be made in the spirit of the goals of integrity and ethics set forth below.

This Code of Ethics and Conduct applies to all employees of Allwyn.

Message from our President

We strive for excellence in all we do – it's what our customers have told us they expect from us and what they admire about our organization. And that excellence also reflects a high ethical standard. Our values include respect – for each other and for our customers – and honesty in how we conduct business. The policies in this section are intended to provide a common set of expectations about ethical behavior at Allwyn. Please let me know if you have any questions.

2.2 Code of Ethics

Allwyn is committed to the highest standards of service quality and business integrity. Our reputation for integrity is our most valuable asset and is directly related to the way we conduct ourselves. Compliance with legal and ethical standards is the responsibility of everyone at Allwyn, at every level. All employees are expected to conduct themselves with the highest standards of honesty, fairness, and personal integrity, with adherence to all applicable laws and avoidance of the perception or appearance of impropriety or conflict of interest.

Allwyn recognizes that it is impossible to include every ethical scenario that employees may encounter, therefore we expect our employees to use their best judgment when faced with unique circumstances. When in doubt, we encourage employees to seek guidance from their supervisor, human resources or the company president.

Management Commitment and Responsibilities

We pride ourselves on our open, caring and informal workplace where two-way communication is encouraged. Our open communication allows us to be on alert for, and to feel comfortable reporting, any potentially illegal or unethical conduct or situation. While all of us are expected to conduct ourselves ethically, our supervisors have the additional responsibilities below:

1. To create and maintain a work environment with the highest standards of ethical business conduct
2. To ensure that everyone working with them clearly understands all legal and ethical obligations and our Ethics Policy
3. To make sure employees are comfortable raising concerns without fear of retaliation
4. To prevent retaliation against those who speak up
5. To lead by example in modeling our Ethics Policy in everything they do

Questions and Reporting Non-Compliance

If you ever feel pressured to commit an act that conflicts with our Ethics Policy, believe a colleague is violating this Ethics Policy or otherwise have any questions or concerns, you should feel comfortable talking to any supervisor, human resources or the president of the company.

2.3 Conflicts of Interest

An actual or potential conflict of interest occurs when you are in a position to influence a decision that may result in a personal gain for yourself or for a relative as a result of Allwyn's business dealings.

A conflict of interest is any activity, including any employment, business, social and/or other activity, whether or not pursued for monetary advantage, that appears to be in direct or indirect conflict with Allwyn's interests or that might place you in a conflicting position to that of Allwyn.

You should conduct yourself to ensure that there are not actual or potential conflicts of interest. You should not reap unusual gains through our business dealings. Unusual gain refers to bribes, product bonuses, special fringe benefits, unusual price breaks, and other windfalls designed to ultimately benefit an outside firm, you or both. No "presumption of guilt" is created by the mere existence of a relationship with outside firms.

If you have any influence on transactions involving customers, purchases, contracts, or leases, you must immediately disclose to your supervisor the existence of any actual or potential conflict of interest so that safeguards can be established to protect all parties. Feel free to discuss any concerns that you may have with your supervisor or Human Resources.

Reporting Potential Conflicts

You must promptly disclose actual or potential conflicts of interest, in writing, to your supervisor. Approval will be given as long as the relationship does not interfere with your duties and will not damage your relationship with Allwyn or our customers.

2.4 Outside Employment and Self-Employment

You may hold outside jobs (or have your own business) as long as you meet the performance standards of your job, and as long as the employment (or self-employment) does not create a conflict of interest with Allwyn. You are required to disclose any such jobs or business interests you own in writing to Human Resources. Your outside employment activity must not compete with current or future Allwyn projects.

Please note the following requirements for outside employment:

- You may not conduct outside employment activities during work hours.
- You may not solicit customers of Allwyn for future employment opportunities or for self-employment opportunities.
- When you perform services outside of Allwyn, you must make it clear that you are not providing the services on behalf of Allwyn.
- If your outside work interferes with your performance or the ability to meet the requirements of your job at Allwyn, you may be subject to disciplinary actions up to and including termination

Outside employment that constitutes a conflict of interest is prohibited

Examples of outside employment or activities that constitute a conflict of interest include, but are not limited to:

- Any activity that can be or is harmful to Allwyn's reputation, business relationships, or potential business relationships.
- Performing services for an organization that is in direct competition with Allwyn.
- Running or helping another organization that provides the same services or products that Allwyn offers.

- Making statements that end up in a public forum, including a personal website or social media that are derogatory towards Allwyn or any other employee, in violation of the Information Technology & Social Media Policies, Section 9.
- You may not receive any income or material gain from individuals outside Allwyn for materials produced or services rendered while performing your job.

2.5 Confidential Nature of Work

The protection of confidential business information is vital to the interests and success of Allwyn. Allwyn considers certain information to be confidential and/or proprietary. Such confidential information should not be communicated or disclosed, purposefully or inadvertently, without proper authorization from Human Resources or the president of the company,

Confidential Information includes, but is not limited to: customer files, customer documents, customer correspondence, customer lists, customer contact information, internal discussions regarding customers and their matters, and any and all other customer information; financial, banking and tax information; strategic plans (including marketing plans and strategies); software and computer records; passcodes and passwords; personnel records and policies; any information which Allwyn has received from a third party in confidence; and all other files, correspondence, books and records. If you are not sure if the information you are handling is confidential, consult your Supervisor, Human Resources or Executive Management at Allwyn.

When discussing or transmitting confidential information, follow these guidelines:

- Do not reveal any confidential information except under the direction and with the approval of your supervisor.
- Make sure that confidential information is properly marked and secured before transmittal.
- Ensure that the recipient of the confidential information has a legitimate need to know the information.
- Avoid displaying confidential data where it can be easily observed, including on your computer screen when you are not at your desk.
- Immediately inform your supervisor of the loss of any confidential data.
- Limit reproduction and distribution of such information.
- Secure confidential documents in locked cabinets or containers when not in use.
- Make sure that you properly dispose of all confidential information.

Removing any confidential information from Allwyn's or Allwyn's client's offices without specific authorization from Allwyn management or your client supervisor is strictly prohibited. All confidential information remains the exclusive property of Allwyn or Allwyn's clients, as applicable. Upon separation of employment with Allwyn, employees must return all confidential and sensitive information directly to Allwyn.

2.6 Whistleblower Policy

Allwyn is committed to fostering a culture of integrity and to encouraging employees to report good-faith concerns regarding business-related conduct that may be unlawful. Allwyn does not tolerate any retaliatory, fraudulent, illegal or unethical business-related conduct.

A whistleblower as defined as an employee of Allwyn who reports an activity that he/she considers to be illegal or dishonest to one or more of the parties specified in this Policy. The whistleblower is not responsible for investigating the activity or for determining fault or corrective measures; appropriate management officials are charged with these responsibilities.

Examples of illegal or dishonest activities are violations of federal, state or local laws; billing for services not performed or for goods not delivered; and other fraudulent financial reporting.

If you have knowledge of or a concern of illegal or dishonest fraudulent activity, you should contact your immediate supervisor or Human Resources. You must exercise sound judgment to avoid baseless allegations. If you intentionally file a false report of wrongdoing, you will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

Whistleblower protections are provided in two important areas --- confidentiality and against retaliation. In so far as possible, the confidentiality of the whistleblower will be maintained. However, identity may have to be disclosed to conduct a thorough investigation, to comply with the law and to provide accused individuals their legal rights of defense.

Allwyn will not retaliate against a whistleblower. This includes, but is not limited to, protection from retaliation in the form of an adverse employment action such as termination, compensation decreases, or poor work assignments and threats of physical harm. Any whistleblower who believes he/she is being retaliated against must contact Human Resources immediately. The right of a whistleblower for protection against retaliation does not include immunity for any personal wrongdoing that is alleged and investigated.

All reports of illegal and dishonest activities should be promptly submitted to the President or CEO who is responsible for investigating and coordinating corrective action.

Employees with any questions regarding this policy should contact Human Resources.

Section 3: General Employment Provisions

3.1 Equal Opportunity

Allwyn is an equal opportunity employer. In accordance with applicable law, we prohibit discrimination against any applicant or employee based on any legally-recognized basis, including, but not limited to: veteran status, uniformed service member status, race, color, religion, sex, age (40 and over), pregnancy (including childbirth, lactation and related medical conditions), national origin or ancestry, physical or mental disability, genetic information (including testing and characteristics) or any other consideration protected by federal, state or local law. Our commitment to equal opportunity employment applies to all persons involved in our operations and prohibits unlawful discrimination by any employee, including supervisors and co-workers.

3.2 Employment At-will

Employment with Allwyn is at-will. This means that employment may be terminated for any or no reason, with or without cause or notice at any time by the employee or by the Company. Nothing in this Handbook or any oral statement will limit the right to terminate the at-will employment relationship. This at-will employment policy is the sole and entire agreement between the employee and Allwyn as to the duration of employment and the circumstances under which employment may be terminated. No manager or supervisor has any authority to enter into a contract of employment - express or implied - that changes or alters the at-will employment relationship

3.3 Employee Classifications

Employees of Allwyn are classified as either exempt or non-exempt under federal and state wage and hour laws and are further classified for administrative purposes. The following designations are used throughout this Handbook.

Exempt Employees

Exempt employees are employees whose job assignments meet specific tests established by the federal Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) and state law and who are exempt from minimum wage and overtime pay requirements. Exempt employees are compensated on a salary basis.

Non-exempt Employees

Non-exempt employees are employees whose job positions do not meet FLSA or applicable state exemption tests, and who are not exempt from minimum wage and overtime pay requirements. Non-exempt employees are eligible to receive overtime pay for hours worked in excess of 40 hours in a given week, or as otherwise required by applicable state law.

Full-Time Employees

Full-time employees are those who are normally scheduled to work and who do work a schedule of 35 hours per week. Full-time employees are generally eligible for the employee benefits after a 90-day probationary period as described in this Handbook and are provided with benefits required by applicable law.

Part-Time Employees

Part-time employees are those who are normally scheduled to work and who do work fewer than 35 hours per week. Part-time employees may be assigned a work schedule in advance or may work on an as-needed basis. Part-time employees are eligible for some, but not all employee benefits after a 90-day probationary period described in this Handbook and are provided with benefits required by applicable law.

Temporary Employees

Temporary employees are those who are employed for short-term assignments. Temporary employees are generally hired to temporarily supplement the workforce or assist in the completion of a specific project. These temporary employment assignments are of limited duration. Temporary employees are not eligible for employee benefits, except as required by applicable law, and may be classified as exempt or non-exempt based on job duties and compensation.

3.4 Probationary Period

All new employees will need to complete a probationary period to last 90 calendar days. This probationary period will be a time for learning about your fellow employees, your supervisor and the tasks involved in your job position. We expect you will also become familiar with other relevant information about the Company and our rules or regulations.

Your supervisor will work closely with you on all aspects of your training, understanding and responsibilities during the probationary period. We encourage new employees to get to know their fellow co-workers and supervisors quickly as this tends to help you succeed with our Company.

By completing this probationary period, an employee is not guaranteed continued employment for any term as it is always "at-will" and subject to various conditions.

3.5 Immigration Law Compliance

Allwyn complies with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, which requires that Allwyn hire only individuals with authorization to work in the United States. You are required to present proof of your identity and eligibility to work in the United States when you are hired. You will be required to furnish this information on your first day of employment. In addition, all job offers extended to successful applicants are made contingent upon the receipt of the required original documentation and satisfactory completion of the USCIS Form I-9. Failure to provide the required documentation within legally specified timeframes will disqualify you from employment.

3.6 Performance Appraisals

Allwyn conducts annual performance reviews. Supervisors and employees are strongly encouraged to discuss job performance and goals on an informal, day-to-day basis. This will provide you and your supervisor the opportunity to discuss job tasks, identify areas of improvement, encourage and recognize strengths, and discuss positive, purposeful approaches for meeting goals. A performance appraisal does not always result in an automatic salary increase. The employee's overall performance and salary level relative to position responsibilities must be evaluated to determine whether a salary increase is warranted. Out-of-cycle salary increases must be preapproved by the department manager, human resources and the company president.

3.7 Employment Records

Allwyn's employee files are maintained by Human Resources and are considered confidential. The employee file includes your job application, resume, job description, and records of training, performance appraisals, salary increases, and other employment and tax records. Any records of a medical nature are kept separately from your employee file.

Employee files are the property of Allwyn, and access to the information they contain is protected, for your privacy. You have the right to review your employee file under Human Resources supervision and with prior request. You may not alter, remove, add, or replace any documents in your file. You may not view the personnel records of any other employee. Supervisors may have access to review the employee file of their direct reports on a need to know basis. Supervisors considering the hire of a former employee or the transfer of a current employee may also be granted access to the employee's file. Access to the medical records will not be granted to any employee.

3.8 Personal Data Changes

Personal mailing addresses, telephone numbers, number and names of dependents, individuals to be contacted in the event of emergency, and other such information should always be accurate and current. You should notify your supervisor or the Human Resources of any changes in personal data.

3.9 Non-Disclosure and Non-Compete Policy

Every employee at Allwyn must execute a non-disclosure and non-compete agreement.

Employees are prohibited from disclosing any confidential information concerning Allwyn and our clients, employees, sub-contractors and associates at all times during their employment and after separating employment with Allwyn. For definitions for confidential information see policy 2.5 Confidential nature of work.

As part of the non-compete agreement, employees agree that during their employment with Allwyn and for a period of two (2) years after employment is terminated by Allwyn or by the employee for any reason with or without cause:

- The employee will not directly or indirectly work for or provide any services for Allwyn's customers, clients, vendors and consultants.
- The employee will not solicit any employee or independent consultant of Allwyn on behalf of any other business.

Section 4: Employee Conduct

4.1 Commitment to a Respectful Workplace

Allwyn is committed to promoting an environment where employees are treated with respect, fairness and dignity. All employees have a responsibility to act in good faith and be active participants in contributing to the creation and enhancements of a culture of respect, inclusion, civility and understanding for the people whom they work with. Additionally, Allwyn prohibits conduct that is unlawful, offensive, insulting, intimidating, threatening, degrading, defamatory, disparaging, disrespectful, or discourteous. This policy applies to conduct towards or by its employees, executives, supervisors, coworkers, customers, vendors, independent contractors, regardless of where it happens. Incidents inconsistent with this policy should be reported directly to Human Resources.

4.2 Rules of Conduct

Allwyn expects you to follow rules of conduct that will protect the interests and safety of you and the Allwyn team. The following guidelines have been established. A violation of any of the policies and practices set forth in the handbook and the listed prohibited conduct guidelines will result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

Since it is impossible to list guidelines to cover every situation, the absence of an illustration from this list will not be the basis for avoiding disciplinary action when Allwyn believes such action is warranted. The activities prohibited by Allwyn include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Stealing from customers, Allwyn fellow employees or possession of stolen property on Allwyn or customer property.
- Gambling or bookmaking on Allwyn or customer property (except for major sports pools).
- Falsifying time keeping records.

- Soliciting, distributing literature, or conducting unauthorized meetings of any kind on Allwyn time or property or customer time or property during working hours.
- Posting, removing or tampering with the bulletin boards or notices posted on bulletin boards without authorization or defacing any posted signs, displays, or property.
- Taking an incentive payment directly from a third-party if not approved by management or accepting unusual gains regarding business dealings that could be a conflict of interest.
- Disobeying safety regulations, including failure to promptly report work-related accidents to management.
- Insubordination, such as failure to follow a reasonable instruction of a supervisor or management.
- Using Allwyn's resources or customer's resources for personal use, including but not limited to nonwork-related internet surfing, excessive personal phone calls, shopping online, reading non-work-related news or material, extended non-business-related lunches, etc.
- Failure to observe "good housekeeping" practices by not cooperating in keeping Allwyn facilities or customer facilities clean.
- Failing to observe Allwyn security regulations or customer security regulations.
- Disclosing or distributing confidential or proprietary information as stated in Allwyn's Commitment to Ethics in the Workplace.
- Unauthorized disclosure or use of a confidential password; or accessing a system or retrieving another person's stored communications when not a required job responsibility.
- Any form of discrimination, unlawful harassment, or harassing conduct, as stated in our Anti-Discrimination and Harassment Policies.
- Any action whatsoever that tends to destroy good relations between Allwyn and its employees, or between Allwyn and any of its suppliers, customers or the public in general.
- Conduct that is an infringement of another individual's intellectual property rights.

- Any other action that violates Allwyn policy or practice, including without limitation, Allwyn's Confidentiality Policy.

4.3 Attendance Policy

All employees are expected to arrive at work at their regular scheduled time.

If employees are unable to report for work on any particular day, they must call their supervisor before the time the employee is scheduled to begin working for that day, or as soon as practical. If you cannot reach your supervisor, you should contact the next person in your management chain. It is encouraged that you speak with your supervisor personally to report an unplanned absence, however in the case you must leave a voicemail, it is required that you follow up with your supervisor later that day. If you become ill or must leave the office for any reason during the workday, you must inform your supervisor of the situation. Excessive absenteeism or tardiness may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment,

If an employee fails to report for work without any notification to their supervisor and their absence continues for a period of 2 days, the Company will consider that the employee has abandoned and voluntarily terminated his or her employment.

4.4 Work Hours

Allwyn's office is open for business from 9:00 am to 5:00 pm Monday through Friday, except for Holidays. (See Holiday policy, section 10).

The standard workweek is 40 hours of work, beginning on Sunday at 12:01 am, and ending at midnight on Saturday, for purposes of computing various employee benefits.

All employees are expected to arrive at work during business hours, as per their work schedule. At the discretion of your supervisor, you may be granted an alternative work schedule, subject to consideration of the requirements, coverage, and workloads of the office.

4.5 Telecommuting

Temporary or ad hoc telecommuting arrangements may be approved for special circumstances. These arrangements are approved on an as-needed basis only, with no expectation of ongoing continuance.

All temporary or ad hoc telecommuting arrangements are made on a case-by-case basis, focusing first on the business needs of the company.

Telecommuting on a regular basis is not permitted.

4.6 Nursing Mothers Policy

Allwyn will provide a reasonable amount of break time to accommodate you if you need to express breast milk for your infant child. Allwyn will make reasonable efforts to provide you with the use of an office, room or location other than a toilet stall for you to express milk in private. You should consult with your supervisor if you have questions or need a room.

4.7 Personal Appearance and Attire

Allwyn intends to provide you with a work environment that is professional, safe and comfortable. You are expected to exercise good judgment and present a neat and clean appearance. If you interact frequently with customers or vendors, you should wear appropriate business attire. Unless otherwise indicated, business attire is required for attendance at all internal and external Allwyn events,

Throughout the workweek you may dress in Business Casual attire in the office. Business Casual attire means neat shirts, blouses, sweaters, slacks or skirts. Your clothes should fit you well, be in clean condition and suitable for the performance of the job. Keeping in mind these factors:

- Attire exposing one's shoulders, back, mid-section, chest, cleavage or undergarments is not appropriate.
- Tank tops, spaghetti straps, or revealing shirts are not appropriate.
- T-shirts with inappropriate or offensive gestures or advertising are not appropriate.
- If you report to work inappropriately dressed, you may be asked to return home to change. You will not be compensated for the time away from work if sent home.

When meeting with a customer, the dress code is more business-oriented including slacks, dress shirts or blouse, dress or skirt and blouse.

No appearance or attire code can cover all contingencies, so use your best judgment when choosing what to wear to work. If you are uncertain, ask your supervisor or Human Resources.

4.8 Telephone Courtesy

Good telephone etiquette is essential for Allwyn. Company issued telephones are intended for the use of serving our customers and conducting company business.

Personal phone calls during working hours should be kept to a minimum, except in times of extreme emergency.

Section 5: Employee Relations

5.1 Open Door Policy

Allwyn encourages its employees to bring all complaints, problems or concerns to their supervisors, senior management, or Human Resources. We believe in the right of each employee to individually discuss employment concerns and to use the Open-Door Policy to speak openly. Open and honest communication creates an atmosphere of trust and mutual respect. It allows employee concerns to be effectively addressed and resolved and fosters employee understanding of the rationale for the employer's policies, practices, and employment decisions.

As a first step it is encouraged that you raise your question or concern promptly with your supervisor. If you are not satisfied with the resolution outcome, you may appeal to senior management or Human Resources. If you are not comfortable speaking with your supervisor, you can at any time choose to consult Human Resources.

5.2 Anti-harassment

Allwyn is committed to providing a work environment that is free of illicit harassment. 5.3 Confidentiality and Anti-retaliation

Complaints are handled with discretion, preserving confidentiality to the extent practical while ensuring that the complaint or issue is investigated thoroughly. However, complete confidentiality cannot be promised or guaranteed.

Disciplinary action may include first notice, second notice, and, termination of employment. Final determinations as to discipline are left to Allwyn's sole discretion.

Section 6: Compensation

6.1 Time Keeping

Accurately recording is the responsibility of every employee. Federal and state laws require Allwyn to keep an accurate record of time worked to calculate your pay and benefits. Time worked is all the time spent on the job performing assigned duties. Applicability of local laws may affect work schedules and reporting. Falsifying a time record may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination.

You must sign or otherwise approve your time submissions to verify that the reported hours worked are complete and accurate (and that there is no unrecorded or "off-the-clock" work). Your time submission must accurately reflect all hours worked, any absences, early or late arrivals and early or late departures. Overtime work must always be approved in advance. Time records are used to calculate overtime pay.

Within five calendar days at the end of every payroll period, you should submit your completed time submission for verification and supervisor approval. When you receive each paycheck, you should verify immediately that you were paid correctly for all hours worked each workweek.

Payroll will review the time worked before submitting it for payroll processing. If corrections or modifications are made to the time sheet, both you and your supervisor must verify the accuracy of the changes by approving the adjustment.

Violations

You may not falsify a timecard or alter someone else's timecard. You may not, and your supervisor may not, instruct another employee to incorrectly or falsely report hours worked or alter another employee's timecard, or to under-or over-report hours worked.

No one should ever instruct you to alter another employee's time records to inaccurately or falsely report that employee's hours worked; conceal any falsification of time records or to violate this policy; or remote falsify a time record. If any of these situations happen, you should report it immediately to authorized personnel. Every report will be fully investigated.

Allwyn does not tolerate retaliation against employees who report alleged violations of this policy or who cooperate in Allwyn's investigation of such reports.

6.2 Payroll

All employees are paid once a month. In the event that a regular scheduled payday falls on a weekend or holiday, employees will be paid on the business day before the regular scheduled payday. Paychecks are deposited directly into an employee's bank account using direct deposit ACH and all incoming employees are required to sign up for direct deposit.

Mandatory deductions will be taken out of each employee's paychecks. Mandatory deductions include:

- Federal and state income taxes (based on an individual's W-4 filing status; W-4 filing status may be changed at any time by filing a new W-4 form with Payroll)
- Social Security taxes; and
- Medicare taxes

Routine questions about tax deductions may be directed to Payroll. Advice on tax withholding strategies, however, should be discussed with a personal accountant or financial planner/advisor.

6.3 Overtime Pay

Allwyn pays each non-exempt employee overtime at a rate of one and one-half times the employee's regular rate for all hours worked in excess of 40 hours per workweek.

As required by law, overtime pay is based on actual hours worked. Time taken for meal periods is not included as time worked for purposes of computing overtime. Time off on holidays, sick leave, PTO, personal leave, or any leave of absence will not be considered hours worked for purposes of overtime calculations.

Nonexempt employees are prohibited from working "off the clock" for any reason. If any supervisor or manager directs any employee to do so, the employee must contact Human Resources immediately.

Before any nonexempt employee performs additional work outside of his or her regularly scheduled hours, the employee must obtain authorization from his or her supervisor approving the additional hours, including working during lunch or coming in early. If the employee fails to obtain authorization, the overtime will be paid; however, the employee will be subject to corrective action for this policy violation.

Any supervisor or manager who fails to pay overtime to an employee, regardless of whether the overtime was authorized, will be subject to corrective action, including termination of employment

6.4 Pay Transparency

Allwyn will not terminate or in any other manner discriminate against you or any applicants because you have inquired about, discussed, or disclosed your own pay or the pay of another employee or applicant. However, if you have access to the compensation information of other employees or applicants as a part of your essential job functions, you must not disclose the pay of other employees or applicants to individuals who do not otherwise have access to compensation information, unless the disclosure is (a) in response to a formal complaint or charge, (b) in furtherance of an investigation, proceeding, hearing, or action, including an investigation conducted by Allwyn, or (c) consistent with Allwyn's legal duty to furnish information.

6.5 Business Expenses

You are eligible for reimbursement of company-related expenses with the approval of your supervisor. In general, expenses must be reasonable, ordinary, and necessary business-type expenses to be reimbursable, such as travel costs, mileage, meals, etc. You must submit an expense report with appropriate approval to Accounts Payable/Payroll department, along with appropriate supporting documentation for expenses to be reimbursed. Section 10: Classified Material & Security Clearances

This section applies only to employees who require a security clearance as part of their employment with Allwyn.

10.1 Classified Material Clearance

Access to classified information requires a security clearance issued by the U.S. Government

If a supervisor or other program official decides that you need classified access, you will be asked to complete a Personal Security Questionnaire, which along with supporting documents will be forwarded to clearance granting authorities.

After a clearance has been granted, you must attend a security indoctrination briefing that will outline your responsibilities. You will also sign a nondisclosure agreement at this time. You will not be allowed access to classified information until a clearance has been obtained and you are briefed.

All employees at Allwyn will be required to take periodic training and refreshers about the security classification system including "need to know" requirements.

10.1.1 Access Requirements and Need-to-Know

Access to classified information occurs when you have the ability and opportunity to obtain knowledge of classified information. Authorized access to classified information may be granted only when two conditions are met. First you must have a valid and current security clearance at a level at least as high as the information to be released. Second, you must demonstrate the need for access to classified information. This is referred to as Need-to-Know.

Need-to-Know is met when access to classified information is essential to the performance of your job duties in fulfilling a classified contract. Each individual, regardless of rank, position, or amount of clearances and accesses, only has a Need-to-Know for information pertinent to the performance of his/her specific task or project. Need-to-Know is not the same as want to know. Individuals must always establish a person's Need-to-Know before sharing classified information.

The possessor of classified information must ensure the proper clearance and Need-to-Know of the recipient. The possessor must also advise the recipient of the classification of the information disclosed.

Need-to-Know confirmation should come from a security department advisor or representative. If there is doubt as to whether a person has a Need-to-Know, you should check with the proper authority prior to release of any classified information.

10.1.2 Report to Security

- Employees are asked to report to the Office of Security in any of the following situations:
- Any unauthorized attempt to solicit classified information.
- Any classified material being made accessible to the employee before receiving a clearance.
- Any information relating to threatened espionage, sabotage, or subversive activity.
- Any threats to Allwyn security.

10.1.4 Security Violations

Our national security, as well as the country's ability to compete internationally, depends on both cleared and un-cleared personnel adhering to security procedures. As such, security violations need to be reported so Allwyn or our customers can take disciplinary actions, change procedures, or conduct a damage assessment.

Your performance impacts Allwyn. Blatant disregard of security clearance and procedures may affect your continued eligibility for access to classified information. In severe cases, your clearance may get revoked. For Allwyn, each violation affects Allwyn's security posture, which in turn affects its ability to compete in the classified marketplace. Excessive or severe violations may bar Allwyn from participating in classified contracts altogether. When an organization demonstrates a pattern of inadequate protection of classified information, the government has the right to revoke Allwyn's clearance, which can impact the livelihood of Allwyn. Failure to abide by security measures is subject to progressive discipline, up to and including termination of employment and/or criminal charges.

The safeguarding of classified information is the responsibility of all personnel. If an individual, regardless of clearance level, finds unprotected classified material, he/she should secure them to prevent further compromise. Alerting a supervisor of the discovery of such material protects both you and Allwyn from further liability with regard to the material.

- You may occasionally email for personal business. These communications will be treated the same as other messages and are not private. Since Allwyn management can access your personal communications without prior notice, you should not use email to send messages you would not want to share. Use of your Allwyn computer and the Internet for personal reasons, including storing personal files on your computer, should be kept to a minimum.
- You should conduct yourself legally, ethically, and appropriately on the Internet. This includes respecting the copyrights, software licensing rules, property rights, privacy and prerogatives of others, just as you would in any other business setting.
- You should not engage in unnecessary, unauthorized, or unlawful Internet usage. These activities may cause network and server congestion that can slow down other users and tie up shared resources. Unlawful Internet usage may also create negative publicity and expose Allwyn to significant legal liabilities.
- Allwyn may block access from within its networks to sites deemed inappropriate or insecure. If you accidentally connect to such a site, disconnect immediately and alert the IT Consultant so they can make sure your system has not been compromised.

11.2 Social Media Policy

At Allwyn, we understand that social media can be a fun and rewarding way to share your life and opinions with family, friends, and co-workers around the world. However, use of social media also presents certain risks and carries with it certain responsibilities. To assist you in making responsible decisions about your use of social media, we have established these guidelines for appropriate use.

In the rapidly expanding world of electronic communication, social media can mean many things. Social media includes all means of communicating or posting information or content on the Internet. This includes your own or someone else's web log or blog, journal or diary, or your personal website. We also include social networking (including but not limited to Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, LinkedIn) or affinity websites, web bulletin board or a chat room, whether or not associated or affiliated with Allwyn, as well as any other form of electronic communication.

You should refrain from using social media while at work or on equipment Allwyn provides, unless it is work-related as authorized by your supervisor and consistent with Allwyn's Information Technology Policy. Do not use Allwyn email addresses to register on personal social networks, blogs or other online tools.

The same principles and guidelines found in other Allwyn policies apply to your activities online. You are solely responsible for what you post online. Before creating online content, consider some of the risks and rewards that are involved. Keep in mind that any of your conduct that adversely affects your job performance, the performance of fellow associates or otherwise adversely affects customers, suppliers, people who work on behalf of Allwyn or Allwyn's interests may result in disciplinary action.

Know and Follow the Rules

Carefully read our guidelines Commitment to a Respectful Workplace policy in Section 4. Ensure your postings are consistent with these policies. Postings that include discriminatory remarks, harassment, and threats of violence or similar inappropriate or unlawful conduct will not be tolerated.

Be Respectful

Always be fair and courteous to fellow employees, customers, suppliers or people who work on behalf of Allwyn. Keep in mind that you are more likely to resolve work-related complaints by speaking directly with your co-workers or by utilizing our Open-Door Policy than by posting complaints to a social media outlet. If you decide to post complaints or criticism, avoid using statements, photographs, video or audio that reasonably could be viewed as malicious, obscene, threatening or intimidating. Do not disparage anyone or post something that might constitute harassment or bullying. You should not post anything that would intentionally harm someone's reputation, or post something that could contribute to a hostile work environment on the basis of any status protected by law or Allwyn policy.

Be Honest and Accurate

Be honest and accurate when posting information or news. If you make a mistake, correct it quickly. Be open about any previous posts you have altered. Remember that the Internet archives almost everything; therefore, even deleted postings can be searched. Never post any information or rumors that you know to be false about Allwyn, fellow employees, customers, suppliers, or vendors working on behalf of Allwyn or competitors.

Post Only Appropriate Content

- Maintain the confidentiality of Allwyn trade secrets and private or confidential information. Trade secrets may include information regarding the development of systems, processes, products, know-how, and technology. Do not post internal reports, policies, procedures or other internal business-related confidential communications.
- Respect financial disclosure laws. It is illegal to communicate or give a "tip" to others so that they may buy or sell stocks or securities.
- Do not create a link from your blog, website or other social networking site to Allwyn website without identifying yourself as an Allwyn employee.

An involuntary termination of employment, including a layoff, is a management-initiated dismissal with or without cause. Employees may be terminated involuntary or "for cause" for several reasons including:

- Performance
- Problems or misconduct

All involuntary terminations must be approved by the employee's supervisor and coordinated with Human Resources.

If you are terminated due to job abandonment, you are ineligible to receive accrued benefits including pay-out of unused and earned PTO.

- You are encouraged to contact Human Resources with any specific questions about benefits continuation and related issues.

12.7 Exit Interviews

You are encouraged to schedule an exit interview with your Allwyn supervisor within the last week of your employment. Exit Interviews are an important part of Allwyn's "continuous improvement" philosophy. We appreciate your cooperation and assistance with this process prior to leaving Allwyn. This exit interview can help resolve any questions that you have about the status of benefits after leaving employment with Allwyn.

12.8 Employment Verification

A prospective employer or vendor may ask Allwyn to verify certain aspects of (or supply information regarding) your employment with Allwyn. An Employment Verification form provides your authorization and consent to Allwyn to respond to such requests and to supply requested information. By signing this acknowledgement form, you expressly waive the right to review the reference information provided. Only the Human Resources and the President or CEO are able to verify employment. All inquiries must be directed to Human Resources in writing.

Requests for information about former employees are handled by Human Resources, President or CEO. The only information that will be provided in response to any request by a prospective employer will be verification of employment dates, confirmation of salary, job title(s), and if eligible for rehire.

I understand that we may end our employment relationship at any time, with or without cause, and for any reason or for no reason. I also understand Allwyn may change the handbook at any time, without prior notice to me, and that while I will be notified of future changes, my compliance with the policies and practices set forth in the handbook are based on this acknowledgement, and that Allwyn may or may not request that I sign additional acknowledgements. I will notify Allwyn's Human Resources promptly if I am unable to comply with any future changes in policies or practices.
